Introduction and special features

This four-year degree in Korean, Intercultural Communication & Linguistics – which includes a year in Korea – gives you the skills you need to work in Korea or in an international professional context. The programme is designed to help you gain Korean language skills, a deep understanding of Korean culture, the ability to communicate intercultural, and insight into different sociocultural language practices. You'll study how language relates to speakers' intentions and purposes in social interaction, social attitudes to language, and the way language choices can express identities and cultural values.

You can enter this programme as a beginner in Korean. You can also enter if you have studied Korean before and/or if you have any qualifications in Korean, as long as you do not already have B1 level or above of the Common European Framework for Languages (CEFR). Through the programme, you will progress from talking about yourself and your routine to using your Korean flexibly in a variety of social, academic and professional contexts.

Special features:

- Start Korean from beginners or with prior study. On arrival at York St John University you will be placed at an appropriate level, either Accelerated Korean 1 or Korean Communication 1
- Study abroad between level 5 and level 6 – study Korean for two years before going abroad
- Take part in extra-curricular activities related to Korean language and culture: the vibrant student-run Korean Society, where you can experience Korean culture and meet home and exchange students, and staff-led events and trips.
- Access specialist spaces for students: A Linguistics Lab, Languages Workshop, Lounge and Study
- Learn about current research issues and methods from guest lecturers in our Colloquium Series on a variety of topics related to programmes in Language and Linguistics
- Apply to join the University's Students-As-Researchers scheme or present your dissertation research at ULAB, the Undergraduate Linguistics Association of Britain conference

Admissions criteria

You must meet the minimum entry requirements which are published on the programme specific webpage.

If your first language is not English, you need to take an IELTS test or an equivalent qualification accepted by the University (see <https://www.yorks.ac.uk/international/how-to-apply/english-language-requirements/>).

If you do not have traditional qualifications, you may be eligible for entry on the basis of Recognition of prior learning \(RPL\). We also consider applications for entry with advanced standing.

Programme aim(s)

By the end of the programme, successful students will reach B2/C1 level on the Common European Framework for Languages (CEFR) in Korean. You will be able to have conversations, give presentations, join in discussions, read articles and reports, and write coherently, communicating effectively for a range of academic, social and professional purposes. You will have both theoretical expertise and real-life experience in intercultural communication and linguistics, enabling you to work in Korea or in an international professional context.

¹ Your Korean level will be tested on arrival and the appropriate module selected.

² Accelerated Korean 2 normally follows Accelerated Korean 1; Korean Communication 2 normally follows Korean Communication 1.

³ If you fail LAL5024M or choose not to study abroad before the start of level 5 semester 2, it may be more appropriate for you to take LAL5007M instead of LAL5015M as that module is geared towards study abroad. Students studying abroad must take LAL5015M.

Please note that not all options will be available every year as they depend on student demand and staff availability.

Learning, teaching and assessment

Korean

You can enter this programme if you are a complete beginner or if you have studied Korean before. On arrival at York St John University your Korean level will be tested using a placement test. You will be placed at an appropriate level, either Accelerated Korean 1 or Korean Communication 1. Korean Communication 1 is designed for students who have studied Korean before and/or who have a qualification in Korean.

We use a communicative Korean teaching style at level 4, teaching speaking and listening through tasks such as pair-work and group work. Reading and writing input includes focus on independent learning strategies. At level 5 you will be taught Korean via a range of strategies which may include content-and-language integrated learning – you will study aspects of Korean cultures, communities and societies through the medium of Korean and English. You will learn through giving and listening to presentations, reading and discussing news articles. There will be discussion of independent learning strategies, weekly tests and formative feedback on writing. In your Year Abroad, if you study at a host university in Korea, you will study Korean language and culture, as well as modules relating to the Intercultural Communication & Linguistics side of your programme. Our level 6 Korean language project modules make use of a range of learning and teaching strategies which may include content-and-language integrated learning – you will study academic and professional Korean through topics on Korean cultures, communities and societies. You will learn through individual and/or group presentations, reading and discussion of authentic texts, and formative feedback on writing. You are expected to proactively engage with the language outside of class time at all levels.

Intercultural Communication and Linguistics

Intercultural Communication and Linguistics modules are delivered using a mixture of lectures, workshops and seminars. Academic and research skills are embedded in modules, for example, academic writing and referencing, peer review, use of web based resources for document sharing, and the use of wikis and blogs. The assessment varies from module to module. There is an exam on LAL4004M Descriptive Grammar of English at level 4. Other assessment methods include essays, presentations, data analysis, peer reviews, blog posts and research proposals and reports.

Year Abroad and Work Experience

You will spend a year in Korea between level 5 and level 6. You will normally study abroad at one of our partner institutions. While studying abroad, you will take Korean language classes at your host university. You will also take courses, either taught in English or in Korean, that are relevant to the Intercultural Communication and Linguistics side of your degree. You are expected to fully engage with the tuition and assessment, but your grades will not count towards your York St John credits.

At the end of your Year Abroad you will submit a Reflective Report LAL5017M. Through this module you will reflect on your Year Abroad with particular reference to how your experience relates to the modules you studied at level 4 and 5 and will go on to study at level 6. As part of this module you will also carry out 10 days of work experience. This addresses the University commitment to ensuring that graduates of York St John have worked towards the development of their own post-graduation careers.

Instead of a year studying abroad plus 10 days of work experience, it may alternatively be possible to you to do a year-long work placement while in Korea.

If you fail LAL5024M or choose not to study abroad, you may transfer to the exit award BA (Hons) Intercultural Communication and Linguistics with Korean. For this award, PLOs 5.7 and 5.8 do not apply.

Level 6

Level 6 modules challenge you to critically evaluate language teaching methods in global multilingual contexts through independent study. You will learn research and academic literacy skills across both Korean and Intercultural Communication and Linguistics modules, enabling you to construct a convincing argument, evidenced by critical engagement with appropriate sources, both orally and in writing, and in both English and Korean. In the 40-credit dissertation module you conduct an independent research study of relevance to your programme, drawing on the research skills you have learned throughout the programme, and supported by additional skills sessions and up to six hours of one-on-one supervision.

Progression and graduation requirements

The University's general regulations for undergraduate awards apply to this programme.

Any modules that must be passed for progression or award are indicated in the Programme Structure section as non-compensatable.

In addition, the following programme-specific regulations apply in respect of progression and graduation:

The opportunity to participate in the Year Abroad is a privilege and approval is given during level 4 and 5 subject to meeting the following criteria:

1. At least 70% attendance in Korean modules, and across all six level 4 semester 1 and semester 2 modules.
2. At least 50% attendance across all three level 4 semester 1 modules (any lower than this means that meeting criteria 1 would not be possible by the end of semester 2)
3. At least 80% attendance in Korean modules, and across all six level 5 semester 1 and semester 2 modules
4. At least 60% attendance across all three level 5 semester 1 modules (any lower than this means that meeting criteria 3 would not be possible by the end of semester 2)
5. To have met the university requirements for progression to level 6 by the end of level 5 (at first attempt for semester 2 modules), in accordance with the University's general regulations for undergraduate awards and confirmed at the semester 2 examination board
6. No concerns under the Fitness to Study Policy that would prevent you from studying abroad
7. No breaches of the York St John Student Disciplinary Policy
8. Successful completion of study abroad application process leading to acceptance by a host institution.

Students who do not pass one or more semester two modules may be able to change programme or suspend study and reapply for study abroad the following year, once the conditions for progression according to the University's general regulations for undergraduate awards have been met for level 5 modules during the summer resit period.

Progression from level 4: If you do not meet the Study Abroad requirements specified above and fail the 0 credits module 'LAL4016M Proceed to Study Abroad', but you have met the general University progression standards to progress to level 5 and have passed the level 4 language module LAK4002M or LAK4004M, you will be transferred to level 5 of BA (Hons) Intercultural Communication and Linguistics with Korean. If you have not passed the level 4 language module LAK4002M or LAK4004M, but you have met the general University progression standard, it will usually be possible to transfer through the Change of Programme procedure to a course which does not require a pass in this language module, most likely BA (Hons) English Language and Linguistics.

Progression from level 5: If you do not meet the Study Abroad requirements specified above and fail the 0 credits module 'LAL5024M Proceed to Study Abroad', but you have met the general University progression standards to progress to level 6 and have passed the level 5 language module LAK5002M, you will be transferred to level 6 of BA (Hons) Intercultural Communication and Linguistics with Korean. If you have not passed the level 5 language module LAK5002M, but you have met the general University progression standard, it will usually be possible to transfer through the Change of Programme procedure to a course which does not require a pass in this language module, most likely BA (Hons) English Language and Linguistics.

Progression to level 6 at the end of the Year Abroad is determined by the pass/fail module LAL5017M Reflective Report. In the exceptional case of a student not completing the Year Abroad, progression to level 6 is not possible on this programme. In this exceptional case, you would transfer to BA (Hons) Intercultural Communication and Linguistics with Korean.

In special circumstances where the students are not able to study abroad due to external factors (e.g. virus pandemic, war, political conflict), students will be consulted and may be able stay on this programme without going to study abroad.

Late result modules

Indicate any module codes where the result of the first attempt is not known in time for the June School Assessment Panels (or equivalent level progression point for non-standard entry points).
